Searching a Creative Commons Flickr Photostream

When individuals or organizations create Flickr accounts, they upload their images to a photostream. A photostream is a collection of images associated with a photographer or uploader. If you find a photostream that you like, it is possible to search only that photostream.

Step 1.
- After searching Flickr Creative Commons (see How to Search Flickr for Creative Commons Images), select an image that you like by clicking on the image. Then, click on the name of the Flickr account. You will find the name of the Flickr account directly below and to the left of the image that you have selected.
Step 2.
- Once you have clicked on the photostream name, you will see only images uploaded by the account owner.

Step 3.
- To search just this photostream, click on the “Search photostream” icon. This icon is located on the right side of the page, just above the images.
Step 4.
- After clicking on the “Search photostream” icon, the search box at the top will change. You will see the name of the photostream that you are searching.

Step 5.
- Enter your search term in the box and click your enter key.
Your results page will only contain images from this photostream.

J Yochem's photos

“Searching a Creative Commons Flickr Photostream” by Conestoga College is licensed under CC BY-SA 4.0.